Doença cerebrovascular; acidente vascular cerebral atual, histórico ou condição prodrômica. Conhecida predisposição hereditária ou adquirida para tromboembolismo arterial, como hiper-homocisteinemia e anticorpos antifosfolípidos. Histórico de enxaqueca com sintomas neurológicos focais. Alto risco de tromboembolismo arterial devido a múltiplos fatores de risco ou presença de um fator de risco grave, tais como diabetes mellitus com sintomas vasculares; hipertensão grave; dislipoproteinemia grave. Presença ou histórico de doença hepática grave na qual os valores da função hepática não retornaram ao normal. Insuficiência renal grave ou insuficiência renal aguda. Presença ou histórico de tumores hepáticos (benignos ou malignos). Malignidades influenciadas por esteroides sexuais conhecidas ou suspeitas. Sangramento vaginal não diagnosticado. Hipersensibilidade às substâncias ativas ou a qualquer um dos excipientes. Não preserve este medicamento para mulheres com histórico de tromboembolismo venoso associado à gravidez ou ao uso de estrogênios exógenos, ou mesmo de causa desconhecida, a menos que estejam usando anticoagulantes. Categoria de risco na gravidez: X. Este medicamento não deve ser utilizado por mulheres grávidas ou que possam ficar grávidas durante o tratamento. Uso contraindicado no aleitamento ou na doação de leite humano; Este medicamento é contraindicado durante o aleitamento ou doação de leite, pois é excretado no leite humano e pode causar reações indesejáveis no bebê. Seu médico ou cirurgião-dentista deve apresentar alternativas para o seu tratamento ou para a alimentação do bebê. Advertências e Precauções: O uso de qualquer COC aumenta o risco de TEV em comparação com o não uso. O risco de TEV é mais alto no primeiro ano de uso do COC. O risco de complicações tromboembólicas venosas em usuárias de COC pode aumentar substancialmente em uma mulher com fatores de risco adicionais, principalmente se houver múltiplos fatores de risco. Estudos epidemiológicos associaram o uso de COCs a um risco aumentado de tromboembolismo arterial (infarto do miocárdio) ou acidente vascular cerebral. O risco de complicações tromboembólicas arteriais ou de um acidente vascular cerebral em usuárias de COC aumenta em mulheres com fatores de risco. Fumar aumenta o risco deste medicamento causar problemas no coração e vasos sanguíneos. Mulheres com hipertrigliceridemia ou histórico familiar, podem apresentar um risco aumentado de pancreatite ao usar COCs contendo etinilestradiol. Se desenvolver hipertensão clinicamente significativa durante o uso de um COC, é prudente que o médico suspenda a ingestão dos comprimidos e trate a hipertensão. Nas mulheres com angiodedma hereditário, os estrogênios exógenos podem induzir ou exacerbar os sintomas do angioedema. Distúrbios agudos ou crônicos da função hepática podem exigir a interrupção do uso de COC até que os marcadores da função hepática retornem ao normal. Este medicamento pode causar hepatotoxicidade. Por isso, requer uso cuidadoso, sob vigilância médica estrita e acompanhado por controles periódicos da função hepática durante todo o tratamento. Mulheres diabéticas devem ser cuidadosamente observadas, principalmente no estágio inicial do uso de COC. Piora da depressão endógena, da epilepsia, da doença de Crohn e da colite ulcerativa foram relatadas durante o uso de COC. Ocasionalmente, pode ocorrer cloasma, especialmente em mulheres com histórico de cloasma gravídico. Como com todos os COCs, podem ocorrer sangramentos imprevistos (escape ou sangramento), especialmente durante os primeiros meses de uso. Informe ao paciente que este medicamento não protege contra infecções sexualmente transmissíveis, recomendando o uso de preservativo sempre que for necessário. Atenção: Cada comprimido rosa deste medicamento contém 39,9 mg de lactose e cada comprimido branco contém 6766 mg. Este medicamento não deve ser usado por pessoas com síndrome de má-absorção de glicose-galactose. Atenção: Contém lactose. Atenção: Contém os corantes dióxido de titânio e óxido de ferro vermelho que podem, eventualmente, causar reações alérgicas. Interações com medicamentos, alimentos e álcool: Podem ocorrer interações com medicamentos que induzem enzimas microsossomais que podem resultar em aumento da depuração dos hormônios sexuais e que podem levar a ocorrência de sangramento irregular e/ou falha do anticoncepcional. Mulheres em tratamento com medicamentos indutores de enzimas devem utilizar temporariamente um método de barreira ou outro método anticoncepcional, além do COC. A drospirenona, progestagênio de Nextela® é metabolizada pelas enzimas do citocromo P450. Substâncias que aumentam a depuração de COCs, por ex., barbitúricos, bosentana, carbamazepina, fenitoina, primidona, rifampicina e medicamentos para HIV como ritonavir, nevirapina e efavirenz e possivelmente também felbamato, griseofulvina, oxcarbazepina, topiramato e produtos ou preparações à base de plantas contendo erva-de-são-jão (Hypericum perforatum). As informações de prescrição de medicamentos concomitantes para HIV/HCV devem ser consultadas para identificar possíveis interações e quaisquer recomendações relacionadas. Inibidores fortes (por ex., cetoconazol, itraconazol, claritromicina) ou moderados (por ex., fluconazol, diltiazem, eritromicina) da CYP3A4 pode aumentar as concentrações séricas da drospirenona. Pode afetar o metabolismo de ciclosporina, lamotrigina. Uso com medicamentos contendo ombitasvir/paritaprevir/ritonavir, com ou sem dasabuvir, pode aumentar o risco de elevações da ALT. O uso de anticoncepcionais esteroidais pode influenciar os resultados de certos exames laboratoriais. A drospirenona causa um aumento da atividade da renina plasmática e da aldosterona plasmática. Posologia: Cada cartela vem com 24 comprimidos rosa (ativos), seguidos de 4 comprimidos brancos de placebo. Tomar por via oral um comprimido por dia durante 28 dias consecutivos.
